DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
2. Claims 1-2, 4-6 and 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Albert et al.(6,820,305).

Albert et al. discloses a similar accessory assembly however fails to disclose the attachments formed integrally with the body.

Albert et al. discloses an accessory body (fig. 1, #5).

Albert et al. discloses a crevice attachment and an upholstery attachment integral with the body (fig. 1, #3,2). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to form the crevice and the upholstery attachment of Albert et al. integral with the body since it has been held forming in one piece an article which has formerly been formed in two pieces and put together involves only routine skill in the art.

Albert et al. discloses a dusting attachment movably disposed on the body (figs. 2-3, #4).

With respect to claim 2, Albert et al. discloses the body, crevice attachment and upholstery attachment in fluid communication with each other (fig. 1, #3,5,2).

With respect to claim 4, Albert et al. discloses the crevice attachment and upholstery attachment formed at opposite ends of the body (fig. 1, #3,2).

With respect to claim 5, Albert et al. discloses the crevice attachment having a suction port smaller in diameter than the body, the upholstery attachment having a widened section larger than the body and the dusting attachment having brush bristles with ends (fig. 1, #3,5,2).

With respect to claim 6, Albert et al. discloses the body having a rail slot and the dusting attachment having a projection for sliding along the rails (figs. 4-5, #124).

With respect to claim 9, Albert et al. discloses the widened section provide with a floor brush (fig. 1, #16).

With respect to claim 10, Albert et al. discloses the crevice attachment having an inclined opening(fig. 1, #5). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to determine the most appropriate angle of the brush bristles in Albert et al. to allow for the most effective agitation of the desired surface.

With respect to claim 11, Albert et al. discloses the widened section is oppositely inclined to the opening of the crevice attachment (fig. 1, #5,11).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 3 and 7-8 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed 1/12/23007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive against the argument against DE10108639(Albert et al.;6,820,305; US equivalent).

Applicant argues Hurd does not teach structures or devices that are formed integrally. Examiner agrees with this argument and believes it would not be obvious to form the pieces integrally because it would prevent the assembly from rotating about #12.

Applicant argues Pineschi does not teach structures or devices that are formed integrally. Examiner agrees with this argument and believes it would not be obvious to form the pieces integrally because it would prevent the upholstery attachment from being able to slide along the guides 8.

Applicant argues DE10108639/6,820,305(Albert et al.) does not teach structures or devices that are formed integrally. This argument is not found persuasive because it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to form the crevice and the upholstery attachment of Albert et al. integral with the body since it has been held forming in one piece an article which has formerly been formed in two pieces and put together involves only routine skill in the art. There appears to be no underlying factors (for instance, the need to be able to slide) that would discourage one from forming the attachments integral in Albert et al.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
